Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1, 2, 7, 10, 15, 16, 18 and 23-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gray (3,772,203) of PTO-1449 or BO in view of Schmitt (3,866,800).

Gray teaches a post-shaving cream comprising a container having a first chamber and a second chamber and at least one dispensing valve for dispensing the contents of said chambers with an oxidant component and a reductant component (See column 1, lines 52-column 2, line 40). Note column 5, lines 1-40 shows the oxidant component can be hydrogen peroxide. Note column 5, lines 63-column 6, line 31 shows the other ingredients that are combined with the shaving cream such as emollients, water, thickeners and soaps. Note column 6, lines 50-68 shows the various surfactant, anionic, cationic and nonionic and esters of higher fatty acids and ethoxylated alcohols. Note column 7, line 38-column 8, line 28 shows the ranges in which the instant components are combined together to form the post-foaming shave cream.

The instant invention differs from the cited reference in that the cited reference does not teach the post-foaming shave gel. However, the secondary reference, Schmitt, teaches a non-pressure package containing self-heating product. Note the non-pressure package contains two separate components comprising a) an oxidant-containing composition and b) a reductant-containing composition. Note column 2, lines 60-67 teaches the reductant (reducing agent) can be sodium or potassium salts of sulfurous acid or thiosulfuric acid as, for instance, sodium sulfite or potassium thiosulfate. Note column 5, lines 28-31 teaches the two components can be gels.

One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to prepare a post-forming gel composition comprising water, surfactant, self-foaming agent in a container/dispenser wherein a chemical reaction incident to the mixing of the reagents provide exothermic heat and wherein the chemical reaction is between a thiosulfate and hydrogen peroxide.

Claims 1, 2, 7, 10, 15, 16, 18 and 23-37 are not allowed.
